Subject: Special event with Senate pages and senators

Good morning,

I'm reaching out to let you know about an invite-only event senators are hosting on Monday, November 23.

This event is a special panel, with senators and former and current pages, where prospective candidates for the Senate Page Program will have an exclusive opportunity to ask pages and senators questions about the experience. The Senate has just recently launched recruitment for Senate pages for the academic year 2021-22 – any bilingual student who is studying for their first undergraduate degree (or will be studying for their first undergraduate degree in the next academic year) is eligible to apply. You can get more information on the program here.

We're building an invite list for the panel, with 20 spaces available on a first-come, first-served basis – depending on numbers, we'll limit spaces to 2 per academic institution. I wanted to give you the opportunity to suggest some potential candidates who meet the description above (studying in the first undergrad, bilingual) to participate in the panel.

If you have some people in mind who might be interested in participating, please send me a list of your suggested names and their emails (about 5-10 maximum) by Friday, October 30, and let me know if you have any questions.

Looking forward to hearing from you!
